PROGRESS REPORT

What went well last week?

Last week I was able to begin on the wireframes.

What is the focus of today?

Improving the wireframes

What blockers exist?

Having to balance the making of the project on top of other activities for separate subjects. As well as studying for the upcoming midterms. Having to adjust to my newly given position is also a task as I am not used to such positions.

What went well?

We finally managed to establish our roles and have already made progress on the wireframes although a slow one.

What didn't go well?

Were still confused as to how our final output would have to look like. There are still some confusions on the ERD.

What should we start doing?

Start taking initiative on the tasks as well start thinking ahead for what to do on the project.

What should we stop doing?

Stop getting distracted. Also stop overthinking on what to add, we do not want a much more complicated project than what it initially is.

What should we continue doing?

Continue chipping away at the tasks at hand even if it's small progress day by day.
